Introduction to the Edinburgh University Press website

<http://www.euppublishing.com>

The EUP website is the fully hosted platform for all Edinburgh University Press journals and an up-to-date guide to EUP book information. Its easy-to-use interface allows readers to discover a wealth of information about EUP books and book series, and to download, read, recommend and cite content from a wide range of journals. All users can access free journal featured articles and sample issues, sign up for Table of Contents alerts, download bibliographic information and sign up for article citation tracking. This user manual will guide you through the key features of the platform and enhance your reading experience!

Home Page

From the Edinburgh University Press homepage you can:

- Browse EUP books and journals by subject area
- Search for specific books and journals (use Advanced Search for more complex searches)
- Enter the Information Zone for further information on key features of the site for Authors, Academics, Societies and Librarians
- Login or Register to enable access to content, saved searches and article citation tracking, and to sign up for Table of Contents alerts and our catalogue mailing list
- Access content via Shibboleth and institutional login
- Find contact details for EUP staff and further information about the publisher via the Contact Us and About Us links.

Register or Login

Select Register or Login from the top right-hand-side of the homepage. Registration is free and will enable you to access content you have subscribed to, activate tokens for free online access, save book or journal searches, sign up for journal Table of Contents alerts, track or download article citations and join EUP subject mailing lists.

To register, please enter your contact information and choose a password.

My Account

The My Account link appears in the top right corner when you are logged in to the site.

A screenshot of the 'My Account' page. The page has a light blue header with the title 'My Account' and several tabs: 'Account info', 'Mailing List', 'Journals Alerts', 'Journal Favorites', and 'Access Tokens'. The 'Journals Alerts' tab is selected. Below the tabs, there is a section titled 'Sign Up for Journal Email Alerts' with a list of bullet points and a 'Save Changes' button. Below that is a 'Table of Contents Alerts' section with a table of publications and checkboxes for 'E-Alert' and 'RSS'.

In the My Account area you can:

- Edit your personal details and login information via the Account Info tab.
- Sign up to the EUP Mailing List to receive email newsletters or print catalogues for your chosen subject areas.
- View the list of journals you have access to via the Journals Alerts tab, and sign up for email alerts to receive Tables of Contents on publication of a new issue or notification of citations to specific articles.
- Use quick links to go to your selected favourite articles and journals via the Journal Favourites tab.
- Enter an Access Token you have received to activate your time-limited free access to specific content.

Institutional administrators will see an additional Institutional Administration tab – please refer to the separate Institution Administration User Guide available at <http://www.euppublishing.com/page/infoZone/librarians>.

Literary Studies at Edinburgh University Press

Our Literary Studies list will be of interest to those studying, teaching and researching in the diverse fields of Literary Studies, such as British Literature, American Literature, Renaissance Literature and Postcolonial Literary Studies.

The list covers most periods of literary study, as well as literary theory and criticism. Our aim is to engage curious readers of all kinds and to promote critical thinking.

We have a number of significant series that advance scholarship including The Frontiers of Theory and Edinburgh Studies in Transatlantic Literatures, as well as resources designed for students such as the Edinburgh Critical Guides to Literature.

The list publishes established authors, including French theorist Hélène Cixous, Shakespearean and literary critic Catherine Belsey, American literary critics Geoffrey Hartman and J. Hillis Miller and leading Scottish literary critic, Cairns Craig, as well as notable young scholars.

Somatechnics

New for 2011, Somatechnics presents thoroughly multi-disciplinary scholarship on 'the body'.

Victoriographies

New journal Victoriographies is concerned with writing of the long nineteenth century and writing about the nineteenth century.

Select a subject area or click the All link to view a list of subjects, together with all journal titles alphabetically.

Select a subject area from the All Subjects menu to view only journals within that subject area or choose a letter from the A-Z list at the top to view titles beginning with a specific letter. Click on a journal title to go to the journal homepage.

Search Publications

Quick Search

A quick search box is available on most pages. Enter a word or phrase in the box provided. Selecting the 'Go' button performs a default search of all Edinburgh University Press publications and the results are displayed by relevancy to the search criteria.

Advanced Search

Click on Search in the top menu or Advanced Search to the right of the quick search box to go to the Advanced Search page.

You can search for a specific book, journal article or book series by the following criteria:

- Book/Article Title: enter title keywords here.
- Author/Editor: enter first and/or last names of book authors, book editors and journal article authors here. The following formats are all acceptable:
smith j
smith, j
smith john
smith, john
- ISSN/ISBN/DOI: enter a journal ISSN, book ISBN or journal article DOI here, if known (please do not use spaces or hyphens).
- Full Text (Journals)/Keywords: a wider keyword search that crawls the full text of all journal articles.

Search tips

- Searches are not case sensitive: a search for deleuze or Deleuze will give the same results.
- The search engine uses 'stemming' so searches for figure, figures, figured, and figuring will have the same result set as a search for figur.
- Two wildcard characters are supported:
 - the asterisk () stands for zero or more characters at the end of a search word e.g. adeno finds adenovirus, adenocarcinoma, adenohypophysis, adenosine, etc.
 - the question mark (?) stands for any character within the search string e.g. b?nd finds bond, bend, band, bind (plus all their plurals and '-ing' forms because of stemming – see above).

Click the Search Tips link for more detailed information on searching.

Restricting your search

- You can restrict your search by Publication Type to Journal, Book or Book Series.
- You can also restrict your search by Subject by selecting one or more subjects. To select multiple subjects, hold down the 'Ctrl' key.

Search Results

Search results are displayed for books, journal articles and book series in three separate tabs.

The results of a search are displayed by relevancy and can be reordered by publication date, author or title A-Z, with the total number of matches found listed at the top of the results. You can narrow down the results of your search by entering search terms in more than one search field.

Click on a title in the search results to go to the relevant homepage.

The screenshot shows a search interface with a left-hand sidebar for filters and a main results area. The sidebar includes sections for 'Search For' (with fields for Book/Article Title, Author, and ISSN), 'Publication Type' (with checkboxes for Journal, Book, and Book Series), 'Full Text (Journals) / Keywords', and 'Publication Dates' (with 'Published Since' and 'Published Before' dropdowns). A 'Subjects' list is also present, with 'All Subjects' selected. The main results area shows 'Journal Results (69)' and 'Book Series Results (3)'. It displays a list of articles, including 'Deleuze Modernist' by Bram Teven and 'Deleuze, Guattari and Emergence' by John Protevi. Each article entry includes a title, author, journal name, volume/page information, and a brief abstract. Action links like 'Abstract', 'PDF plus', 'Track Citations', and 'Download to Citation Mgr' are provided for each result.

For journal article results, you can also Track Citations for selected articles, to receive email notification when an article is cited. The Download to Citation Mgr link allows you to download article bibliographic information to a range of citation managers. Select one or more article and click on Add to Favourites to save articles to the Journal Favourites tab in your My Account menu. You can also Email selected articles to colleagues.

This screenshot shows the top portion of the search results page, including the search filters sidebar and the main results area. The 'Journal Results (69)' tab is selected, and the 'Track Citations' and 'Download to Citation Mgr' links are visible at the top of the results list.

If you are a registered user, you can save search results to your profile and set an alert to be notified of new results relevant to your search term(s).

The screenshot shows a 'Save This Search' dialog box with three tabs: 'Save Current Search', 'Search History', and 'Saved Queries'. The 'Save Current Search' tab is active, showing a 'Search Name' field, a 'Description' field, and an 'Alert me to new results from this Saved Search' section. The alert section has radio buttons for 'Never', 'Daily', 'Weekly', and 'Monthly', and an 'RSS (Search Alert)' checkbox. A 'Save This Search' button is at the bottom.

The Search History tab allows you to revisit recent searches and the Saved Queries tab lists any saved searches (you need to be logged in to use this feature).

Journals

All EUP journals are available in print and online formats. Each journal homepage contains general information about the journal, publication months, and relevant news and announcements. The left-hand menu provides links to further information on the Editorial Board, as well as Submissions information for prospective authors, and pricing and ordering details via the Subscribe link. Sample issues and featured articles which are free to all users can also be accessed from the journal homepage.

The most recent issue appears on the journal homepage and back content is presented by issue via the All Issues tab in the left-hand menu.

Access icons indicate whether you have access to the full text:

Chaos and Control: Nanotechnology and the Politics of Emergence
 Matthew Kearnes

This article looks at the strong links between Deleuze's molecular ontology and the fields of complexity and emergence, and argues that Deleuze's work implies a 'philosophy of technology' that is both open and dynamic. Following Simondon and von Uexküll, Deleuze suggests that technical objects are ontologically unstable, and are produced by processes of individuation and self-organization in complex relations with their environment. For Deleuze design is not imposed from without, but emerges from within matter. The fundamental departure for Deleuze, on the basis of such an ontology, is to conceive of modes of relating to the evolution of technology. In this way Deleuze, along with Guattari, provides the basis for an ethics and a politics of becoming and emergent control that constitutes an alternative to the hubris of contemporary reductionist accounts of new areas such as nanotechnology.
